

journal of botany, british and foreign - journals.uchicago - journal of botany, british and foreign.-the first article is a notice with figures, by s. lem. moore, of the royal herbarium kew, of a monstrous monanidrous cyripediurn. it leads to a discussion of other deviations from the usual structure of cyripedium, one of which was observed by dr. asa gray. the journal of the american bamboo society - department of botany, iowa state university, ames, ia 50011-1020 u. s. a. abstract two species of woody bamboos, athroostachys capitata and chusquea spencei, are lectotypified based on observations made from specimens deposited in the herbaria at kew and the british museum. a recent visit to the herbaria at kew and this is a reproduction of a book published before 1923 ... - journal of botany: british and foreign, volume 11... this is a reproduction of a book published before 1923. this book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages, poor pictures, errant marks, etc. that were either part of the original artifact, a new species of primulina (gesneriaceae) from guangdong ... - journal of botany, british and foreign 21: 165-170. hilliard, o.m. (2004) a revision of chirita sect. liebigia (gesneriaceae). edinburgh journal of botany 60: 361-387. servicing the state: empire, expertise and the british hemp ... - overwhelmingly on the resources of the british empire, as botany, agriculture and the global acquisition of resources ... marine carried all of the nation's foreign trade. it followed that policy-makers ... the journal of imperial and commonwealth history 653.